TRACKS autism has appointed a leading Hertfordshire autism specialist to head up its new cutting-edge early years centre in Stevenage.

Jane Wagstaff brings over a decades experience working in the field of special needs and autism to her new role as Principal of TRACKS autism.

"It's a real coup to secure Jane to lead our new centre," said Mervyn Terrett, chairman of TRACKS autism. "She not only brings a wealth of experience of working with children with autism but also specialist insight and skills to help us develop and expand the valuable service we offer vulnerable children and their families."

The announcement of the appointment coincides with the official opening of the charity's brand new specialist early years centre. This opens following a successful Capital Appeal which, with the help and support of parents, staff, local community members, local and national businesses and trusts alongside the charity's own patrons and trustees, successfully raised over £360,000.

"I am delighted to be given this opportunity to lead a team of experienced staff at TRACKS and look forward to working with the parents and carers," said Jane Wagstaff. "The new building and facilities are so well thought out and designed and I relish the opportunity to use them to their full potential."

Jane will take up her new position from September 2015.
